To whom it may concern

I approached Brett Powell after being referred by several colleagues that had utilised his skills before. I was stuck in a complex situation where the client was holding back payments without reason, and knowing Brett's knowledge in both law and building when compared to others, it was a simple choice to engage him.

Brett was very clear and professional from the very beginning, taking quick action to ensure everything was in line and organised. His solutions were extremely well thought out and covered all bases, along with his foresight to counteract future issues from arising. I particularly liked the way Brett was honest and upfront to aspects from cost to potential losses, and the way I was guided through the many decision processes that followed.

To summarise the experience as a whole, I would simply say Brett Powell is extremely experienced and knowledgeable to all aspects of Law and Construction, and his working methods are fast and to the point, with a level of care beyond what one would expect from a typical law firm – certainly giving personalised devotion throughout.

I would therefore strongly recommend Brett Powell to anyone needing assistance from simple advice to complex law suits, especially when Building/Construction related. I continue to use Brett till this day for advice and direction in all matters.

Kind Regards,
